Closed Sun. dinner and Wednesdays.

We've dined in this restaurant numerous times over the past decade. It currently has no stars in the Guide Michelin...in our estimation it merits a star. They actually had a star a few years ago. In any case, the wine list offers numerous choices and the menu is excellent. Our last visit we ordered a "fantasy menu", something available only if everyone at the table agrees to have this. It included a terrine with foie gras, red mullet, sweetbreads, cheese and dessert.

MA CUISINE cleverly hidden in the Passage Sainte-Hlne

Tel: 03.80.22.30.22 Fax: 03.80.24.99.79

I am unclear as to what hours this place is open. It's my understanding the hours are dependant upon the schedule of their school-aged kids. We've stopped by a couple of times to find the place closed on days when one might expect them to be busy. These people have a neighboring wine emporium which is well-stocked with top wines from Burgundy. The place is small, so a reservation is a good idea. It's a popular dining spot with local winemakers who can drink a bottle of their own wine, or their neighbor's, for a very reasonable price. Let's keep this a secret, please!

Robert Losset place l'Eglise in Flagey-Echezeaux (well north of Beaune 10-15 minutes)

Tel: 03.80.62.88.10 No fax. Closed Sun dinner, Tue lunch and Wednesdays.

On a suggestion from Gault-Millau (this guy is not in the Guide Michelin), we reserved a table in this modest place. No sign indicating a restaurant. They're marked by signage reading "Bar-Tabac". Obviously popular with the locals, as we had the last table in this busy place. We ordered a couple of good, modestly-priced Burgundies. Lunch began with a taste of escargot in a Pernod cream, followed by a terrine of foie gras and artichokes...then a palate cleanser of an apple sorbet topped with Calvados, followed by a main plate of rabbit and assorted veggies, a cheese tray and dessert. Cost about 200FF each with the wine! This was a great find!

LES TONTONS 22 rue Faubourg Madeleine in Beaune

Tel: 03.80.24.19.64 Fax: 03.80.22.34.07

We had a wonderful lunch at this snazzy little restaurant. The food is well-prepared and flavorful, having a bit of "soul" to it. The wine list features many good selections, reflecting a bit of care and thought.

Wine service was also professional and the wines were served at the proper temperature.

The place is small, so reservations are a good idea, especially since so many of the region's winemakers patronize the place. I've heard there are two wine lists, one featuring more "special" bottlings and little treasures. You might ask.

CAVEAU DES ARCHES 10 boulevard Perpreuil in Beaune (this is between the Place Madeleine and the Place Carnot in the "ring road" or periphique of Beaune).

Tel: 03.80.22.10.37 Fax: 03.80.22.76.44

We had a lovely dinner in this spacious "cave" below the town of Beaune. The wine list is presented in a bound, leather book, featuring many pages of local wines. Prices are reasonable. The cuisine is good, though we didn't "test" the menu fully on our first visit. For $21 Euros we started with a dozen Escargot with the requisite amount of garlic, followed by their nicely done Volaille Roti, cheeses and a small apple tart (prepared to order).

Les Millesimes 25 rue de l'Eglise in GEVREY-CHAMBERTIN Tel: 03.80.51.84.24

Fax: 03.80.34.12.73 Closed Wed. lunch and Tuesdays.

Famed for the cuisine, but the extraordinary wine list which has great wine from everywhere. Service is said to be exceptional. Prices 295FF-600FF.

Rotisserie du Chambertin Rue du Chambertin in GEVREY-CHAMBERTIN Tel: 03.80.34.33.20 Fax: 03.80.34.12.30 Closed Sun dinner, Mondays.

This place is famed for its wine museum as the entry to the dining room. Gault-Millau suggests the Coq au Vin...Menus from 190-410. Said to have a fine list of Burgundies.

Le Benaton 25 rue Faubourg-Bretonniere in BEAUNE Tel: 03.80.22.00.26 Fax: 03.80.22.51.95

Closed Wednesdays and Thursday at lunch.

Some friends from Pommard suggested this place and it was booked by the time we got there. The place is supposed to be very typical of Burgundy and said to be the best value in Beaune. Menus from 120-230FF...

In a studied environment that might have sprung from the pages of Elle Decor, this bistro entices with an unusual menu that changes often. Once split into two sections -- "tradition" and "discovery" -- the menu now focuses chiefly on discovery, with complex dishes such as chicken strips tandoori-style served with coriander-braised green cabbage and caraway-flavored rutabaga, followed by just as elaborate desserts. Culinary experimentation happily works here, and service is friendly. Best value is the EUR 35 prix-fixe at lunch or dinner.

Brasserie de l'Île St-Louis $-$$$, French, Île St-Louis User Rating:  4.9

- Closed Wed. and Aug. No lunch Thurs.
- Metro: Pont Marie

Opened in 1870 -- when Alsace-Lorraine was taken over by Germany and its chefs decamped to the capital -- this outpost of Alsatian cuisine remains a cozy cocoon filled with stuffed animal heads, antique fixtures fashioned from barrels, and folk-art paintings. Expect hearty country-style fare: coq au Riesling, omelets with Muenster cheese, onion tarts, and choucroute garnie (sauerkraut studded with ham, bacon, and pork loin -- one variant is made with smoked haddock). In warm weather the crowds move out to the terrace overlooking the Seine and Notre-Dame. With the famed glacier Berthillon so close by, it's best not to bother with the pricey desserts here.

Chez Georges $$$, French, Louvre/Tuileries User Rating:  4.8

If you were to ask Parisian bankers, aristocrats, or antiques dealers to name their favorite bistro for a three-hour weekday lunch, many would choose Georges. The traditional fare, written in authentically hard-to-decipher handwriting, is good -- chicken-liver terrine, curly endive salad with bacon and a poached egg, steak with béarnaise -- and the atmosphere is better, compensating for the rather steep prices. In the dining room a white-clothed stretch of tables lines the mirrored walls; attentive waiters sweep efficiently up and down its length. Order one of the wines indicated in colored ink on the menu and you can drink as much or as little of it as you want (and be charged accordingly); there's also a separate wine list that has grander bottles.

L'Os à Moelle $$$$ French, Trocadéro/Tour Eiffel User Rating:  4.8

- Address: 3 rue Vasco-de-Gama, Paris
- Phone: 01-45-57-27-27

- Credit Cards: MC, V
- Closed Sun., Mon., 3 wks in Aug., and 1 wk in Feb.
- Metro: Balard

Designed for serious eaters, this small, buzzing bistro serves a six-course dinner menu for EUR 38 (there's no à la carte) that changes daily (a less elaborate lunch menu costs EUR 32). You might find white-bean soup, rouget (red mullet) fillets with red peppers, or a roasted pear with cinnamon ice cream -- don't expect miniportions. With a strong list of fairly priced wines, your bill can stay comfortably low. Even cheaper is the restaurant's casual wine bar across the street, with its country buffet for EUR 20 and farmhouse-style seating -- but the cooking seems considerably less careful here.

La Fermette Marbeuf 1900 $$-$$$ French, Champs-Élysées User Rating:  3.4

- Address: 5 rue Marbeuf, Paris

- Metro: Franklin-D.-Roosevelt

Graced with one of the most mesmerizing Belle Époque rooms in town -- accidentally rediscovered during renovations in the 1970s -- this is a favorite haunt of French celebrities, who adore the sunflowers, peacocks, and dragonflies of the Art Nouveau mosaic and stained-glass mise-en-scène. The menu rolls out a solid, updated classic cuisine. Try the snails in puff pastry, saddle of lamb with choron (a tomato-spiked béarnaise sauce), and bitter-chocolate fondant -- but ignore the rather depressing EUR 30 prix-fixe unless you're on a budget. Popular with tourists and businesspeople at lunch, La Fermette becomes truly animated around 9 PM.
